D'Onofrios Celebrate Silver Anniversary

One of Torrance's most popular couples, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. D'Onofrio, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Feb. 7 with an open house from 2 to 5 p. m. and an evening champagne party at 8 p. m.

More than 100 local and out-of-town guests attended the elaborate afternoon affair at the D'Onofrio home, 741 Sartori.

Decorations of silver leaves, white mums, wedding bells and satin bows carried out the anniversary theme.

A large satin heart with an arrow of silver graced the mantle which was banked with a floral display of silver camelia buds and leaves.

On the beautifully appointed table set with a service of silver, lily of the valley embedded in ice floated in the large punch bowl.

A many tiered cake highlighted the display of refreshments. Mrs. D'Onofrio's white cotton lace dress cut princess style with a full gored skirt was complemented by a white orchid corsage presented to her by her husband.

The couple eloped to Las Vegas in 1934 following an introduction by mutual friends in Long Beach.

Mrs. D'Onofrio has lived in Southern California since 1919. Her husband, originally from New York, was serving in the Navy when they met.

Following their marriage the couple moved to Torrance where D'Onofrio has been employed by Colman Steel for the last 24 years.

Looking forward to another 25 years of happiness, Mrs. D'Onofrio credits their marital success on the fact that they never go to sleep on an argument.

High Mass Wedding Rites Unite Early, Cox

High mass wedding rites at St. Lawrence Martyr Church, Redondo Beach, united Diane Levalta Early and her bridegroom, Richard Tal Cox, Feb. 7.

Renditions of wedding favorites were sung by the Bob Mitchell Choir as the bride's father escorted her to the altar.

She recited her marriage vows in the white candle and floral setting gowned in Skinner satin lace with an imported pearl coronet and fingertip veil.

The neckline of the bouffant gown was enlarged with seeded pearls and sequins. The chapel length train ended in a huge bow.

Her bridal bouquet was complete and never carry it into the next day," she says. Mrs. D'Onofrio states that "making up right away, pays off."

The D'Onofrios have two sons, Garry Michael and Glenn Warren, both are in high school.

Throughout the anniversary day the couple received many gifts and cards.

Among the out of town guests attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bartlett, La Verne, Commander and Mrs. William Bonacker and Commander and Mrs. Carl Pritchard, San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reimer, Tucson, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ortega, Oceanside.

Also attending were: Mrs. D'Onofrio's brothers and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Muehl-Muehlstedt and Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Muehlstedt.

Mr. and Mrs. Don F. Muehlstedt and Mrs. Carl Pritchard were chosen to pour at the reception table.

Credited for the lovely decorations and floral arrangements was Mrs. Corwin Dean, assisted by Mrs. Ben Jones and Mrs. Richard Colburn.
